TABERNACLE CHOIR PERFORMANCE RACING COSTS VIADUCT JOB OF "CREATION" ARTISTIC SUCCESS TWO $50 EACH AGAIN DELAYED

Fine Start Made in Educational Movement to Have Haydn's Great Descriptive Work Performed as Annual Feature of Ogden's Musical Life

Haydn's famous oratorio "The Crea-Ogden and Howard Fraze, tenor, of tion" was performed at the Ogden Salt Lake, Haydn's famous oratorio "The Creation" was performed at the Ogden tabernacle last night by the Ogden Tabernacle choir, with pipe organ and a symphony orchestra of 34 musicians. This was the second time the work that been given in Ogden; the first has been given in Ogden; the first the appearance of an orchestra of 34 musicians.

Last night's performance was a decided success from the artistic standpoint. Whether or not it was a success from a financial standpoint is another question. The auditorium was not quite filled.

There is no doubt, however, that a decided educational advantage has been gained from last night's event, because enough of the city's music levers were sufficiently impressed desire to hear the oratorio sung annually.

The Ogden Tabernacle choir added much to its splendid reputation by its pleasing manner.

The Ogden Tabernacie choir added much to its splendid reputation by its singing of Haydn's beautifully descriptive music. The tonal beauty of the organization was particularly noticeable in that stirring chorus. "The all times the avens are Telling" wherein the vigorous foundation sounded by the big orchestra was particularly effective. The closing chorus. The Lord is Great!" was another striking number in which the choir's work is deserving of the highest commendation.

Haydn has given much work to the isoloists and their parts are exacting. The singing of the soloists in last registrative formance of the following: Maydn's performance was decidedly creditable. These soloists were Mrs. Agnes Warner, Mrs. Ione Sayille, Les' Fred Schade, Frank Rose, Mrs. Jessie Hund and Mrs. Emily Maddock.
